

BREAKING NEWS!

Moor Park Sixth Form is migrating from 'Windows Tablets' to 'Apple I pads' from September 2016.

Preparing for Sixth Form

Even though you are in the middle of a busy exam period and hopefully working hard in the evenings as well as during the day – these next few weeks will pass by before you know it, and around the middle of June or shortly afterwards, you will have taken your final GCSE examination.

You will then begin the longest summer break you will have had since you started school more than ten years ago. Moor Park's sixth form term starts at the beginning of September which means most of you will have a break of over two months.

Have you thought about how you will use this 'free' time?

There are actually things that you can do to prepare yourself for your sixth form studies and your career afterwards.

First of all though, you definitely need to relax and take some time out – you will have worked hard for the past five years at Moor Park, and you will need some time to recharge your batteries.

However, there is only so much daytime TV you can take and so maybe towards the middle of the summer break you might think about doing some wider reading into your chosen subjects, or opportunities which help you develop wider skills, such as a period of work experience or voluntary work in the community.

The skills and knowledge you gain will not only help you when lessons start in September, but they will also give you some positive experience to write on your application for when you progress into employment or university in a few years time.

Important Message!

On GCSE results day (Thursday, 25 August) we will give you an appointment to discuss your options as you begin to prepare for the next stage of your education. It is vital that you make informed decisions at this crucial time.

Sixth Form Students will be equipped with the latest ipads from September 2016 to support their studies.
